NDP Leader Jack Layton spoke at a campaign rally at Fort Edmonton Park yesterday ahead of the May 2 federal election.

Calgary Grit apologizes for racial remarks

► In release, northeast candidate Cam Stewart implied intimidation and threats common among 'Indian' politicians

Calgary Liberal candidate Cam Stewart issued a firm apology yesterday after accusing his opponent of running a campaign "like Indian Politician's do, intimidating and threatening opponent candidate's volunteers and supporters (sic)."

Stewart's comments came in a release after members of his campaign team and that of Conservative opponent Devinder Shory became involved in a heated exchange of words Tuesday evening.

"I deeply regret any offense I may have caused and any misunderstanding about my own — and my party's — views," Stewart said in the apology.

Responding to a request by Metro yesterday, the Liberal Party of Canada said it accepted Stewart's apology and added that it values and respects "the inestimable contribution of the Indo-Canadian community to our multi-cultural society."

Liberal Leader Michael Ignatieff was informed of Stewart's comments, confirmed spokesperson Sarah Bain.

Stewart said his statement was issued in the "heat of the moment" as he alleged Shory's team was intimidating campaign workers at his headquarters before heading to an event at a nearby community centre Tuesday.

A spokesperson for the Shory campaign refuted those claims and called Stewart's comments "a low-blow."

"Devinder, being Indo-Canadian, has had to deal with a lot of racism and issues being thrown at him in this regard," Steven Ladd said. "It's unfortunate that the Liberal candidate is stooping to this level."

Charges dropped in horse shooting

Charges have been dropped against three men accused of shooting a wild horse in west-central Alberta.

New evidence presented to defence lawyers earlier this month cleared Jason Nixon, Earl Anderson and Gary Cape of being involved in the 2009 shooting.

The men said they came upon a horse lying by the side of the road near Sundre and simply moved the carcass. It is believed a witness saw what they did and came forward.

Trio sought in break-in Calgary police are asking the public for help to identify several suspects in a vicious home invasion.

Police have released photos of three men they believe broke into a home last December and attacked a man so badly he required medical treatment.

After being beaten with unknown objects, the victim attempted to escape but was choked unconscious.

The culprits tied him up, ransacked the residence in the city's southeast and stole an undisclosed amount of cash.

They fled in a red, four-door car.

Investigators do not believe the attack was random. THE CANADIAN PRESS

► Calgary commuters can expect a few more traffic snarls in the southwest as the summer push for work on the West LRT begins.

Prepare for more road closures

- Completion of first elevated LRT guideway expected soon
- West LRT construction on schedule and on budget, according to spokesperson
- Crews to begin installing track along West LRT line

While the May long weekend is known for kicking off the summer, this year it will also kick off the next phase of the city's West LRT construction — work that will cause more road closures over the next year.

"2011 will be a very busy construction season for us," explained Christian Cormier, spokesman for the West LRT. "We are aware this is causing a lot of disruption, so we are asking Calgarians for their patience."

More info

► This week, a newsletter outlining the construction over the 2011 season will be sent out to approximately 50,000 residents and

Cormier described the upcoming work as intense and explained that the installation of track will cause four-to-six-day closures at key intersections.

The affected intersections include: Bow Trail and 26 Street Southwest, 47 Street and 17 Avenue Southwest, Costello Boulevard and 17 Avenue Southwest, as well as Christie Park Gate.

Christie Park resident Shannon Vander Meulen wasn't surprised by the news.

"It's been a major issue for the last year and a half and will be for the next year and a half, but I feel like it's worth the short-term pain for the long-term gain," said Vander Meulen.

This seems to be the prevailing attitude of community members, according to Ald. Richard Pootmans.

"This is an investment in the future that will eventually pay dividends," he said.

Revamped school bill targets dropouts, bullies

Alberta is proposing a new education law that would increase the age at which students can drop out and give teachers more power over school-yard bullies.

Bill 18, the Education Act, would also give school boards more latitude to solve front-line problems and deliver program innovations.

"We're talking about a significant cultural shift," Education Minister Dave Hancock told reporters yesterday after he tabled the bill in the legislature.

The bill will replace the current School Act, which governs how schools and school boards operate in the province.

Hancock said the first goal is to keep students in school.

To that end, the proposed minimum age for dropping out will be 17. The current minimum is

► Education Minister Dave Hancock

Students would also have their education funded to age 21 if that's how long it takes for them to complete their diploma. The current age limit is 19.

"Many students who drop out of high school return after one or two years, and we want to ensure finances are not a barrier to completion at

Expanded powers

The proposed Education Act also goes after students who bully their classmates.

► Currently, teachers and principals have authority to deal with bullying on school grounds, but bullying among students off site or on the Internet has been a grey area.

► The bill makes it clear that bullying among students, no matter where it happens, can be dealt with by school officials if it affects how students are performing and learning in the classroom.

an early age," said Hancock.

"It's better for those students and it's better for our community."

Man jailed for killing couple

A central Alberta man has been sentenced to two years and three months in jail for killing a couple while driving drunk.

Chad Olsen had pleaded guilty to impaired driving causing death in the February 2010 collision that killed Brad and Krista Howe.

Just before sentencing yesterday the court heard a victim impact statement from the Howe's youngest child, Molly, who asked her deceased parents, "How is heaven? I miss you a lot."

Court heard that Olsen was speeding when he drove through a red light

The crash prompted Sandra Green, Krista's mother, to ask Prime Minister Stephen Harper for automatic jail terms for drunk drivers.

More politicos than romantics in Canada

► A spike in media coverage may have boosted interest in the royal wedding ► One in five Canadians will watch

What would Canadians rather watch — aspiring prime ministers swapping barbs, or a glamorous royal couple exchanging vows?

A pair of recent surveys suggest Canada's political leaders may come out on top.

A poll assessing national interest in the upcoming royal wedding suggests about 40 per cent of Canadians have been making plans to watch Prince William and Kate Middleton tie the knot tomorrow.

The poll found 19 per cent of Canadians said they were very likely to watch the royal nuptials on television, with an additional 20 per cent saying they were somewhat likely to tune in.

About 15 per cent of Canadians said they were somewhat unlikely to watch the wedding, while 44 per cent said they were very unlikely to do so.

Impressive as those figures may seem for an event in the early morning hours across the country, they fall short of the 51 per cent that declared their intention of watching the English-language election debate that was on TV earlier this month.

THE CANADIAN PRESS

Age, sex, location?

Interest in the royal wedding varies among demos.

► Female Twenty-six per cent of women plan to watch the ceremony, compared to 11 per cent of men.

► Youth Those over the age of 50 are more likely to watch (30 per cent) compared to just six per cent of those 18 to 34.

► Region In Quebec, 52 per cent of survey respondents said they were very unlikely to watch the festivities.

► A bookie takes bets outside Westminster Abbey yesterday. Interest in the royal wedding may be low among Canadian youth, but in London, spectators of all ages are gathering around the route that Prince William and Kate Middleton will take tomorrow.

Layton eyes 24 Sussex as NDP surges in polls

One says Sussex Drive, the other Stornoway. Jack Layton and Stephen Harper don't agree, naturally, on where the NDP leader ought to be after Monday's vote — running the country or leading the official Opposition.

But the very fact they're talking seriously about such things, once laughably unlikely, now forehead-slappingly possible, shows just how utterly on its ear the federal cam-

Layton nearly brought the house down yesterday with a well-worn bit of dare-to-dream campaign rhetoric.

"As your prime minis-

Palestinians agree to form single government

- West Bank and Gaza to reunite
- Questions about Hamas linger

Palestinians have reached initial agreement on reuniting their rival governments in the West Bank and Gaza, officials from both sides said yesterday, a step that would remove a main obstacle in the way of peace efforts with Israel.

Even before the agreement was to be signed, key questions about how to unify rival security forces remained unresolved. Israel immediately rejected the prospect of a Palestinian government including Hamas, and the U.S. expressed similar concerns.

Fatah and Hamas officials said the plan, brokered by Egypt, calls for the formation of a single caretaker government in the coming days. The government would administer ► Foreign evacuees, who fled the besieged city of Misrata, carry their baggage as they are relocated into tents at a temporary refugee camp in Benghazi, Libya, yesterday. The camp provides shelter, basic humanitarian needs and transportation to the Egyptian borders for the displaced who are fleeing conflict zones.

increases air strikes as EU pledges $146 million US in aid

NATO warplanes pounded forces loyal to Libyan leader Moaamar Gadhafi attacking the rebel-held city of Misrata, blasting fighting vehicles advancing on the port that serves as the besieged city's sole lifeline, a NATO spokeswoman said yesterday.

The battle for Misrata has become the focal point of the uprising against Gadhafi's regime, and the near-constant shelling of the city by government troops over the past two months has spurred calls for more forceful international intervention to stop the bloodshed.

In Brussels, the EU commissioner for humanitarian aid said the shelling of the Misrata port has worsened the already bad humanitarian situation in the city and that the 27-nation group has set aside $146 million US to address pressing humanitarian needs.

"The port shelling hampers vessel rotation and therefore hinders further evacuations," said commissioner Kristalina Georgieva.

"The delivery of food, medical supplies and other relief items has been interrupted, and it is close to impossible for our humanitarian partners to evacuate the wounded and civilians by sea."

A resident in Misrata said the city's food stocks were dwindling, and that relief supplies brought by UN aid agencies were not enough to meet requirements. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Popular uprising

Yemeni security forces opened fire on a massive anti-government demonstration in the capital Sanaa yesterday, killing 12 protesters and wounding some 190, a doctor at the scene said.

► Landmark The violence broke out as about 100,000 government opponents filled a landmark square at the epicenter of the uprising, spilling into the streets around the state TV building.

- Civil society Yemenis in at least 18 cities and towns launched a civil disobedience campaign yesterday in an escalation of their more than two-month-old uprising to bring down long-serving President Ali Abdullah Saleh.
- Shut down Shops, schools and government offices were shuttered. The closures are planned twice weekly until Saleh steps down, activists said.
- Revolt At times, millions have flooded the streets of the capital and other cities and towns.

TANKS TRUMP SUPPLIES IN SYRIA

The city at the heart of Syria's monthlong uprising ran low on food, water and medicine yesterday as the army sent in more tanks and reinforcements as part of a widening crackdown against opponents of President Bashar Assad's authoritarian regime, witnesses said.

Two residents in Daraa said at least five army officers had sided with demonstrators, and conscripted soldiers sent into the city were quietly refusing orders to detain people at checkpoints and were allowing some people through to get scarce supplies. But the Syrian government denied that there had been any splits in the military, which is seen as fiercely loyal to Assad.

Gunfire and sporadic explosions were heard in Daraa, two days after the military rolled in — backed by tanks and snipers.

Meeting turns to massacre in Afghanistan

► Afghan military pilot killed eight U.S. soldiers and one civilian ► Gunman had no ties to Taliban

A veteran Afghan military pilot said to be distressed over his personal finances opened fire at Kabul airport after an argument yesterday, killing eight U.S. troops and an American civilian contractor.

It was the deadliest episode of an Afghan turning against his coalition partners. The veteran military pilot was killed during the attack and five Afghan soldiers were injured.

Pentagon spokesman Col. Dave Lapan said all nine of those killed by the

"Suddenly, in the middle of the meeting, shooting started," said Afghan Air Corps spokesman Col. Bahader, who uses only one name. "After the shooting started, we saw a number of Afghan army officers and soldiers running out of the building. Some were even throwing themselves out of the windows to get away."

Learning from past

The American-led war in Afghanistan is heading toward an outcome similar to the disastrous Soviet invasion three decades ago, a new academic analysis concludes.

The analysis concludes the U.S. and its allies have three choices: Declare vic-

Rogers pulls a fast one

Rogers Communications Inc. will roll out an even faster wireless network this year to serve its mobile phone and laptop users, beating rival Telus in the race to have the fastest network.

Long-Term Evolution networks, which are coming into use globally, offer users the equivalent of a home or office Internet connection. Vancouver-based Telus will introduce its own LTE network next year.

LTE is expected to reach Canada's Top 25 markets by the end of 2012.

Air Canada Express finally takes wing

► Montreal-Toronto service could cause flap with rivals Porter, WestJet

Air Canada's rebranding of its regional service is set to take flight Sunday with the launch of Air Canada Express service between Montreal and Billy Bishop Toronto City airport.

Sky Regional will begin contracted service with five slightly used Q400 aircraft. But the fleet of 120 Jazz planes owned by Chorus Aviation will gradually get new colours as they come in for maintenance, as will the 15 new Bombardier Q400s on order.

Non-unionized Sky Regional is one of several small carriers that have contracts with Canada's largest airline. It has 30 flight attendants and 30 pilots.

Ben Smith, Air Canada's chief commercial officer, said bookings for the new service are running as planned. About 60 per cent of passengers are expected to be corporate customers.

To compete with Porter Airlines, which also operates from the Toronto island airport, the new service will offer beverages and food. And passengers will have the flexibility to fly into the island airport, but out of Pearson International.

In addition to creating a iPhones track hotspots, not users: Apple

Apple Inc.'s iPhones do not store a record of their users' movements for up to a year, the company said yesterday. Rather, they store a list of Wi-Fi hotspots and cell towers in their general area.

The company promised software fixes to address privacy concerns raised by a research report last week.

The data in question, downloaded from Apple, help the phone figure out its location without having to listen for faint signals from GPS satellites. That means navigation applications can present the up to a year because of a software error, the company added. There's no need to store data for more than seven days, and a software update in the next few weeks will limit the amount of data in that file.

The iPhone will also stop backing up the file to the user's computer, a practice that also raised some concerns. Computers are much more vulnerable to remote hacking attempts than are phones.

Apple said that while iPhones regularly transmit their location to Apple, they

SOUNDING OFF ON MOVIEGOERS

HE SAYS ...

JOHN MAZEROLLE
METRO

It's time for summer movie season, where the action is fast, the sound is explosive, and the people are idiots. I used to see lots of movies in public during the summer months. But then I realized the public will be there, so I stopped. Way too many of my memorable movie-going experiences have nothing to do with the film.

Consider:

Life Is Beautiful: Two elderly women could not keep up with the subtitles, largely because they were reading them out loud. When there was a time jump after a love scene, they expressed confusion about where the amorous couple had found a young boy.

The Blair Witch Project: A young woman sitting behind me talked in equal measure about how scared she was and how she had absolutely no idea what was going on. At one point, she saw that one of the characters had a rip in his jeans and squealed, "What does it mean?"

"Why would anyone want to make themselves willfully stupid? It's ridiculous but everybody thinks it's OK, which is why movie theatres hold so many blatherers, cellphone users and seat tappers."

Contact: The movie starts with a long, beautiful shot of the noiseless vacuum of outer space, which led people throughout the theatre to yell, "Something's wrong with the sound! Hello? HELLO?"

People like this used to make me angry, but I have recently realized it's not their fault. The fault lies with our whole attitude toward blockbuster movies, especially during the summer season of "event" films, which are required by law to contain a constant mix of bosoms, explosions, and/or zombies.

Most of these movies suck, but if you say that, then somebody will inevitably say, "Just turn your brain off and enjoy it." I hate that.

Watching a bad movie must be the only human endeavour where dumbing yourself down is considered acceptable. Imagine if you were eating spoiled lasagna and a friend said, "Just turn your brain off and revert to a dog-like state where the meat causes you joy."

Why would anyone want to make themselves willfully stupid? It's ridiculous but everybody thinks it's OK, which is why movie theatres hold so many blatherers, cellphone users and seat tappers.

I see now that these are all normal people — who during their day-to-day lives have minds and manners and children who love them — but who during movies "turn off their brains" so they can enjoy the ride.

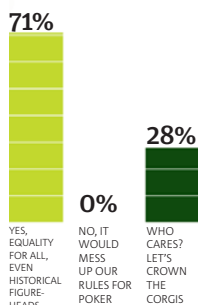

And that's why I avoid seeing blockbusters in public. Because if I didn't, I might become the next summer-movie mindless zombie. If that ever happens to me, you know what to do ...

OTTAWA. As a young woman living in Ottawa Centre, I was personally insulted by the comments made by Helen Friel (Ottawa-Centre Conservative candidate Damian Konstantinakis' campaign office manager), in which she suggested that women dislike Stephen Harper simply because we don't find him "charming."

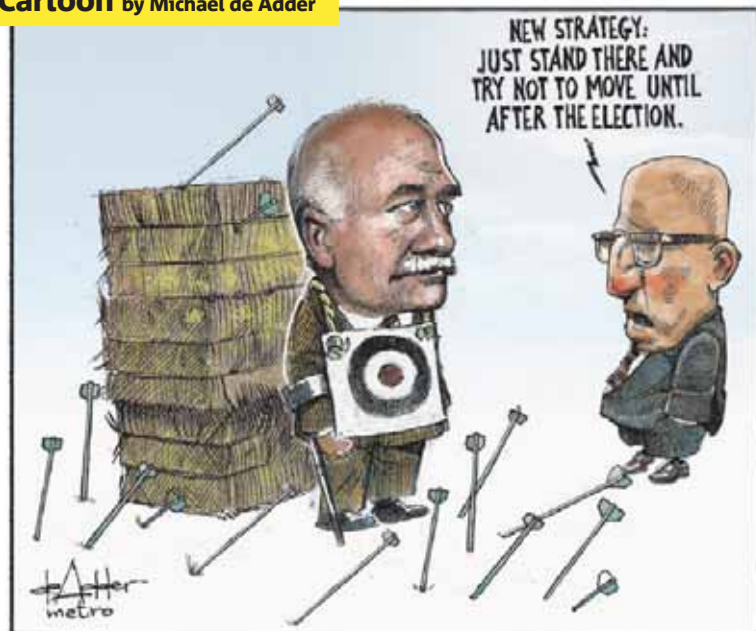

It is exactly this patronizing mentality demonstrated by the Conservative party that deters women such as myself from supporting them.

I feel that Friel's comments imply that women lack the capacity to make rational informed decisions, a stereotype that women have been fighting for years — a fight that has perhaps become more difficult since the Harper government cut funding for women's advocacy by 43 per cent.

Other cuts have included the closing of 12 out of 16 Status of Women offices, and the scrapping of our progressive Court Challenges program.

Yeah, I guess we don't find those things "charming." GLENNYS EGAN

Her golden locks needed protection

Romanians are known to be security conscious, but when the parliament speaker was accompanied by six security officers funded by the taxpayer to the hairdresser, some considered it too much.

Click, a daily newspaper, reported yesterday that Roberta Anastase was guarded by six officers who waited for her outside the hairdresser's during a recent three-hour appointment.

Anastase, who was crowned Miss Romania in 1994, is the third most important person in the Romanian state hierarchy and is legally entitled to around-the-clock security, the Romanian parliament said, responding to the article.

Political commentator Cristian Teodorescu questioned whether Anastase needs 17 guards, which are tasked for her round-the-clock protection.

If there is one thing I have learned about Calgary, it's that we take our special occasions very seriously. St. Patties Day, Stampede, and Halloween all tend to be a blur.

And now patio season is upon us and what better way to prep your liver for a summer of slushy adult beverages than a halfway to Halloween party? I would not joke about this, people. Instead of freezing your tail off on the real Halloween, you can actually roam the streets comfortably in your best and skankiest Halloween attire. Thank radiopark (8989 Macleod Trail SW) for giving us a reason to wear a costume in public in April.

Given the unconventional countdown celebration of this occasion, you might have to get a little creative with the costume.

Let's be honest, a Facebook tag will rat you out if you rehash a costume you just wore six months ago

Celebrate Cinco de Mayo at F.A.T.S.

When she took over as the general manager of F.A.T.S. last year, Heidi Leaman was on a mission.

"What I found was that F.A.T.S. had fallen off the nightlife map in Calgary. So I want to rejuvenate its image and get our name out there," she says.

"There is so much competition in Calgary. I needed to make F.A.T.S. a destination place, so having unique events peaks peoples interest and gives them a reason to come to F.A.T.S."

She's talking about Cinco de Mayo, the event that commemorates the Mexican army's unlikely victory over French forces at the Battle of Puebla. This historic feat took place on May 5, 1862. Fast forward almost 150 years later and they're still celebrating.

Given this May 5 falls on a Thursday, Leaman tells us the resident DJ will be starting early at 7 p.m. and spinning some sexy Latin beats. They've also spiced up the menu to feature Corona and El Jimador Silver Tequila drink specials.

"We will be giving out complimentary chips and salsa and $2 tacos all day, as well," she adds.

F.A.T.S., which has been around since 2004, is located at 506 - 10 St. NW. There's no cover to celebrate, but you better get there early if you want a good seat. For all the details, visit fatsbarandgrill.com.

Lookalikes looking for love

► 10 William and Kate doubles from across the EU get hitched in London ► Italian-U.K. couple win competition

XIAOLIANG HUANG
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

With just 48 hours to go in the Royal Wedding countdown, Europe's 10 best Prince William and Kate Middleton lookalikes gathered by London landmark Tower Bridge to find out if they had won the final round of a royal lookalike contest.

Hundreds of entrants from all over Europe entered a competition launched by cheap flight airline EasyJet, but it was Simon Watkinson from U.K. and Orsola Rossi from Italy who were crowned as the ultimate Prince and Princess lookalikes. They each won a year's worth of free EasyJet flights.

"I have never thought about being a Kate look-alike until 20 days ago when a friends told me I look like the bride-to-be," Orsola Rossi, 30, from Milan told Metro. "I don't think I will profit from it, but I really enjoy visiting London and being a Kate lookalike."

"It is unbelievable that many strange people on the streets keep telling me I look like William," said Simon Watkinson, 29, an engineer who now works as a Prince William impersonator and bears the most remarkable resemblance to the future King.

"I think one of the reasons is that William is sort of losing his hair a bit, and mine's receding a little," he added before he kissed a Kate lookalike on the cheek, just like Prince William would do to Kate.

Besides the most similar appearances to Will and

Kate, the judges also assessed how the 'Kates' threw their bouquets and curtsied in their wedding dress, and how well the RAF uniform-attired Wills' proposed to their brides on one knee.

Living the life of a royal lookalike

While the official royal couple launch boats and visit hospitals, their spitting-images have been busier than ever with parties and photo shoots. We spoke to Andy Walker, Prince William look-alike, about his life of having a famous face.

When did you discover that you looked like Prince William?

I have had people say it throughout my life but I never really thought anything of it. I certainly didn't think I could make a career out of it.

How busy are you at the mo-

I work a three-four day week. Ninety-five per cent is media work, a lot of photo shoots, TV and that sort of thing. I was in a full time job as a security manager. Since the engagement the demand became so high that I had to give up my job.

Do people stop you and think you are Prince William?

Not that much. Well first of all, I've got a lot more hair (laughs). He is losing it really quickly at the moment. I think I look like a younger version of him. ● MARIA THUESSEN BLEEG

PREP FOR FRIDAY WITH THESE REEL ROYAL WEDDINGS

IN FOCUS

RICHARD CROUSE
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

Perhaps you've heard, there's a wedding on Friday. But no, your invitation isn't lost in the mail or caught in a spam folder, you're just not on the list.

When Prince William and Kate Middleton walk down Westminster Abbey's storied aisle (where William's uncle Prince Andrew married Sarah Ferguson in 1986) to exchange "I do's" you'll be at home in your pyjamas watching it on TV with a cup of tea in your hand and a crumpet at your side. The upside? You don't have to get them a wedding gift.

To prep for the pomp and circumstance I've selected a number of royal wedding movies to get you primed for the big day.

The name Marie Antoinette is synonymous with surplus and when little Ms. Let Them Eat Cake wed the Dauphin of France no expense was spared. Married by proxy a month before, she arrived at the site of the ceremonial wedding — at the Palace of Versailles no less — in a procession that included 48 carriages.

See a recreation of the exercise in excess in Sophia Coppola's 2006 film, Marie Antoinette. It may not get the details 100 per cent right, but if you want accuracy watch the History Channel.

Also torn from the history books is The Duchess, the story of the 17-year-old Georgiana Cavendish (Keira Knightley), great-great-great-granddaughter of Diana, Princess of Wales, who weds the much older Duke of Devonshire (Ralph Fiennes).

Speaking of relatives, the life, love and marriage of Queen Victoria (Prince William is her fourth great-grandson) are detailed in The Young Victoria, starring Emily Blunt.

Despite being shot by soft candlelight for a glowing historical feel, The Young Victoria isn't Masterpiece Theatre. Accents and petticoats aside, this is a modern movie, with a modern sensibility, that mixes history, politics, romance, castle etiquette and backroom dealings into one frilly, appealing package.

In the realm of the unreal are two final reel royal weddings. Before Anne Hathaway started taking her clothes off in every movie she stars in, she was the wholesome star of The Princess Diaries. In PD2: Royal Engagement, her character, Princess Mia, must get married in order to become queen.

The most recent royal wedding to hit screens happens in Your Highness, the medieval stoner comedy starring Natalie Portman and James Franco. Prince Fabious Franco walks Belladonna (Zooey Deschanel) down the aisle but the wedding is interrupted by an evil sorcerer.

Let's hope William and Kate have better luck.

Hudson engagement discovered on TV show

► Today Show host Matt Lauer picks up on the new ring around Kate's finger

Kate Hudson and Matt Bellamy are engaged, the actress revealed during an interview with Matt Lauer for the Today show after Lauer pointed out an engagement ring on her finger.

"It just happened a week ago, I'm so glad you noticed," she said.

"I haven't really announced it and I felt like the announcing thing feels so silly, and I was just waiting for someone to notice."

No date has been set, as the couple is focused on welcoming their first child together this summer.

Lohan remorseful for mistakes

With a 120-day jail sentence looming, Lindsay Lohan is owning up to her past mistakes and hoping to turn her life around.

"I've made a lot of poor decisions in the past and I'm dealing with the consequences of those decisions," she said during an interview with Jay Leno. "I know that I have to work to gain the respect back and I'm willing to do the work that I have to do to follow through with being an actress because that's what I love."

But more than anything, she wishes the public would focus on her work more than her troubles.

Barbie Girl

Meet the new Catherine Middleton doll! Unlike many of the other gifts cashing in on monarchy mania, this children's toy has some winning features like the glossy mane of hair, Issa style dress, the fascinator... It's very Kate-like and she's fashionably thin! RICHARD PECKETT

Royal bride Kate Middleton can look at previous UK royal gowns for inspiration.

► Since her engagement to Prince William, the pressure has grown on Kate Middleton to become a style superstar ► But is she really ready to be a trendsetter?

Is Kate Middleton a fashion icon?

KENYA HUNT
METRO WORLD NEWS

Look back at the evolution of Kate's style over the past nine years or so, it's clear that her appearance hasn't changed much. She's developed a personal style that works for her: tall boots with classic straight-leg jeans, tall boots with feminine dresses that respectably trace the curves or tall boots with pretty skirt suits. Her newer clothes may look more expensive and regal, but her trademarks endure. No extreme makeovers here.

It remains to be seen whether Kate will take up the challenge to become Britain's sartorial ambassador. It's technically not part of a First Lady's job description to promote the fashion industry. But if she does, she'll need someone in her corner to help her navigate the minefield of worst-dressed lists and discriminating editors. Then again, with rumors persisting that Middleton will wear Alexander McQueen on her wedding day, maybe she's already found that person.

Sarah Pengiran Salleh, Brunei

At the age of 17, Sarah Salleh married Bruneian Crown Prince Al-Muhtadee Billah Bolkiah on September 9, 2004 in Brunei. The bride was dressed in radiant blue and the glittering traditional Malay ceremony was attended by royalty and politicians from around the world. After the ceremony the couple went for a drive in a specially-customized gold Rolls-Royce.

Lalla Salma, Morocco

Lalla Salma, a 24-year-old computer engineer, married King Mohamed VI of Morocco at the royal palace July 13, 2002 in Rabat, Morocco. The bride was dressed in a traditional Moroccan robe of white, embellished with gold-threaded trim. She also wore a diamond tiara and drop earrings. For centuries, Morocco's monarchs had a tradition of keeping their royal wives hidden but the king broke those traditions by publicly acknowledging his bride.

The dress that dazzled the world

► Metro catches up with Elizabeth Emanuel, designer of the late Princess Diana's wedding dress

RICHARD PECKETT
LIFE@METRONews.ca
METRO WORLD NEWS

As the Royal wedding date approaches, speculation is mounting about which designer is secretly putting the finishing touches to Kate Middleton's dress. It was exactly the same when designers David and Elizabeth Emanuel were creating Lady Diana Spencer's famous wedding dress.

The design of her dress was to be so top secret that they created a second

'stunt' dress for her to wear in case the design was leaked. Metro met with Elizabeth Emanuel to learn more about what it was like trying to keep 1981's biggest secret.

What lengths did the press go to try to get their scoop?

The press staked out the studio, they rummaged through the rubbish bins and continually called using lines like, 'Their jobs

► Diana's bridal gown

► Designer Elizabeth Emanuel

were on the line and if they didn't get the information, they'd have to pull their kids out of school and they'd be forced to move!

How did you keep the dress safe?

There was no Royal protocol, no contracts, no secrecy rules but we made a completely different spare dress, and we had a safe delivered to keep the dress in, which was interesting. We hoped no one would notice but there were about 400 people watching and we couldn't get it through the door, so we it had to hoik it up through the first floor window. It was a complete fiasco.

How was it when Princess Diana visited the studio?

Mostly she came alone but sometimes she came with her sister, bridesmaids or mum and we all sat on the floor and looked at sketches — it was all quite informal. We did a lot of research on royal wedding dresses and she went through our rail and there was one style that looked really nice on her that looked frighteningly close to what we actually did.

How did you decide on a 25 foot train (7.62 metres)?

Well, we did some research and it said somewhere the longest Royal train to date was 23 feet (7.01 metres), so we decided to go the extra two feet.

How did designing the dress change your life?

We were propelled into a different sphere. We made a perfume, bed linens and a copy of the dress for Madame Tussauds, on Diana's request. The dress set new bridal trends because it broke away from traditional styles.

Wallpaper is back in vogue

► Latest papers are more durable, washable and easier to remove ► Rich colours, metallic sheens are hot

DESIGN CENTRE

KARL LOHNES
HOME@
METRONEWS.CA

I am old enough to remember my aunt's dining room with red flock velvet wallpaper — how I loved to go to her house and touch the velvety walls.

I am also old enough to remember going to her house as a young man and helping to remove that wallpaper. I remember thinking to myself that after all the spraying and scraping in the summer heat, I would never put up wallpaper ever again in my lifetime.

They say what goes around comes around and I guess that holds true even with awful things like flock wall coverings.

Wallpaper is coming back in vogue again and there have been some substantial improvements; papers are more durable, washable and much easier to remove to change our walls with the latest fashion of the day.

Just like when I was a boy, velvet wallpapers, beautiful, rich colours and metallic sheens are emerging as trends again. Somehow, they're looking a bit fresher and more fashion-

Side projects

- Wallpaper the front of dresser drawers with left-over wallpaper to create a custom look in a room.
- Wallpaper a boring slab door with a large-scale, punchy-coloured paper to help add vertical art to a neutral room.
- Add wallpaper to the inside of a china cabinet or closet. Use bright colours, such as orange or fuchsia, to add a pop of surprise and wake up your tired china and crystal.

able than I remember.

Special paint primers help create better adhesion from paper to wall and allow the paper to be removed more easily, without damage to the wall surface below. Choose a primer that matches your preference of using oil or latex paints on your walls.

When measuring for wallpaper, remember that you should always buy 20 per cent more than what you measure for. This will allow for matching up patterns and making sure you have a tiny bit extra.

Removing wallpaper

from a properly primed wall is quite easy. When working with a paper wall covering you can spray on a special solution to soften the paper and loosen the glue; the paper should peel off easily.

If working with a vinyl covering or a wall that has not been properly primed, a small tool that perforates the paper will help get the solution in behind and loosen the glue. Within just a few minutes, the paper should be ready to peel off the walls.

There's an old designer secret to making smaller spaces appear visually larger: Add larger prints to fabrics, drapes, art and rugs (items that don't take up any physical space in a room). The larger print gives great impact.

The big trend in wallpaper right now is large prints for impact, but beware — most of the prints are oversized traditional designs that help mock the tinier patterns of years gone by.

Look for colours from fashion — teal, pink, chocolate brown and grey are just a few you'll see on walls this season.

► Graham and Brown's Lacework Moss wall covering.

Where to use wallpaper:

Front foyer: Go bold and dark. Wall coverings with shine, texture and strong colours add impact to a small entrance space. Hang a large mirror and add a show-stopper hanging light and you'll have all the drama you need.

Behind a headboard: Go light or dark depending on the overall decor of the room. A focal wall of paper will make the bed look more important and add pattern or colour that you might have been afraid to choose in the headboard, bedding or draperies. If your overall look is light and airy, then choose a paper that blends and vice versa.

Small dens or guest rooms: Be dramatic and cover all four walls to create an infinite look to the room. Paint the ceiling the same background colour as the wallpaper to make the room feel larger. If matching fabric is available, upholster the furniture to create a seamless designer look with wallpaper, paint and fabric.

Forget about carnations

► This Mother's Day, impress her with gifts from the garden – from hanging vases to botanical dishware

For a lot of moms, the urge to nurture extends to plants and flowers. So for Mother's Day, instead of getting her a traditional floral arrangement that lasts just a few days, consider other options for or from the garden.

If mom spends some of her happiest hours in her backyard garden, you might sign her up for Plantjotter.com's online organizer. With no special downloads or software required, the site allows gardeners to create a personalized web page with info about what they've planted, to-do schedules, photos and wish lists. This spring, West Elm introduced Shane Powers' no-maintenance, indoor her living space. Hanging glass bubble vases and ceramic vessels hold plants such as air ferns, water lilies and succulents.

If mom loves cut flowers, consider PlantationDesign.com's set of Amaretto vases, formed out of deliciously liqueur-like glass swirls. ► Wall mounting is a great way to get your home theatre looking fabulous.

DIY IDEAS

Thinking of mounting your flat-screen LCD, LED, plasma or 3-D TV on the wall?

Wall mounting is a great way to get your home theatre looking fabulous, and it's an easy do-it-yourself project that can be done in just a couple of hours.

Here are the basics of a typical mount installation project.

1. Select a location on the wall where you want the TV to hang. Mounting a TV at eye level will help to avoid neck and eye strain.

2. Use a stud finder to locate wood studs in the wall.

3. Attach the mount to the back of your TV using the holes provided by the TV manufacturer.

4. Pre-drill holes into the wall studs using the mount's wall plate as a guide. Secure the wall plate to the studs.

Note: If your walls are concrete or brick, insert a concrete anchor into each drill hole until it's flush with the wall.

If your wall has metal studs, ask the mount maker if they offer adapter kits — most do.

5. Attach the mount (with the TV attached) to the wall plate.

Your installation may have slightly different requirements.

Remember to follow the manufacturer's directions for proper mount installation.

For help selecting a compatible wall mount for your TV, ask your local electronics retailer for their suggestion.

Or, try one of the many online mount finder tools available, such as the one from mount manufacturer Sanus (which is available at sanus.com).

A refreshing vegetarian soup- and-salad combo

THE CANADIAN PRESS HO/FOODLAND ONTARIO

This Moroccan Vegetable Soup is the perfect vegetarian dish to serve on a cool spring night.

Traditionally finished with a spoonful of harissa, a spicy North African chili sauce, the soup can also be heated up with a few dashes of hot sauce if you like.

Preparation:

1 In large saucepan, heat oil over medium-high heat. Add onion, parsnips and sweet potato; sauté about 5 minutes or until slightly softened. Stir in garlic, ginger, coriander, cumin, paprika, salt, pepper and cayenne.

2 Add tomatoes and broth; cover and bring to a boil over high heat. Reduce heat and simmer, covered, for about 20 minutes or until parsnips and sweet potato are tender.

3 In blender or with immersion blender, puree soup as smooth as you like. Return to pan. Add chickpeas and heat

Lightning eliminate Penguins

LIGHTNING PENGUINS

Dwayne Roloson made 36 saves for his second NHL playoff shutout, Sean Bergenheim scored, and the Tampa Bay Lightning completed a big series comeback by eliminating the Pittsburgh Penguins with a 1-0 win in Game 7 last night.

Roloson became the second goalie to go 6-0 in elimination games. He allowed only four goals in winning the final three games as Tampa Bay erased a 3-1 series deficit. That matched his feat in 2003 when he led the Minnesota Wild to a comeback against the Vancouver Canucks in the second round.

The No. 5 seed Lightning will now face the top-seeded Washington Capitals in the Eastern Conference semifinals.

The Penguins lost their second consecutive Game 7 and fell to 2-6 in such deciding games at home.

Bergenheim's goal 5:41 into the second period was his third in the final four games of the series. Tampa Bay hadn't advanced in the playoffs since winning the Stanley Cup in 2004.

Despite a 36-23 edge in shots, the Sidney Crosby-less Penguins lost three consecutive games for the first time since Dec. 27, 2009-Jan. 3, 2010 — a span of 141 games.

► Horton's 2nd OT winner of 1st round clinches for Bruins in Game 7

Nathan Horton scored 5:43 into overtime to give the Boston Bruins a 4-3 victory over the Montreal Canadiens last night in Game 7 of their first-round playoff series.

The Bruins will play the Philadelphia Flyers in the Eastern Conference semifinals for the second consecutive year.

Tim Thomas stopped 34 shots for the Bruins, who recovered after losing the first two games of the series at home. Boston had never won a playoff series after trailing 0-2 in 26 tries.

Carey Price stopped 30 shots for Montreal, which erased deficits of 2-0 and 3-2 in Game 7.

Horton scored with a slapshot off a pass from Milan Lucic, setting off a celebration on the Bruins bench and in the stands. It was Boston's third overtime win in the series, including Game 5 on Saturday night when Horton scored 9:03 into the second extra period.

Johnny Boychuk and Mark Recchi scored in the first 5:33 of Game 7 to give the Bruins a 2-0 lead. But Yannick Weber made it a one-goal game with a power-play goal in the first. Tomas Plekanec tied it in the second with an assisted, short-handed goal.

After Chris Kelly scored with just under 10 minutes left to give Boston a 3-2 lead, P.K. Subban tied it in the final two minutes — again on the power play.

The Bruins were 0 for 21 on the power play in the series.

But it doesn't matter.

They will open the next round in Philadelphia with a chance to avenge last year's epic collapse against the Flyers. Boston led that series 3-0 before Philadelphia came back to force a decisive game. In Game 7 in Boston, the Bruins took a 3-0 lead before losing 4-3.

That was the second straight year that the Bruins lost a Game 7 at home.

This time, they made sure it didn't happen again. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

► Patrick Chan

Canadian Patrick Chan put on a record performance yesterday in his bid for his first world figure skating title in Moscow yesterday.

The 20-year-old from Toronto compiled a world-record score of 93.02 to lead the short program, landing a perfect quad jump to open the program followed by a huge triple axel.

"I was really proud of myself," Chan said. "I was
